Students are allowed to take this class for multiple times.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES & EVALUATION

Course Requirements:

Attendance	30%
Participation	30%
Final Oral Presentation	40%

Attendance: Attendance is essential for a language course. Except for excused absence with legitimate documents presented beforehand, you are expected to attend all the classes. Leaving 10 minutes early or arriving 10 minutes late will be considered as an absence. However, due to the volatile nature of the pandemic, you are allowed up to 2 absences without excuses, please save them for emergencies, religious holidays, family events, job interviews etc. Any unexcused absence will result in a -1 penalty deducted from your participation grade (which corresponds to -1.5 from total course grade). Being absent for more than 5 classes (including the 2 mentioned above) will result in an F in your final grade.

Participation: Each student is expected to do one 5-minute presentations (at the beginning of class) over the semester. This is a good opportunity for you to practice public speaking and presentation skills in Chinese. You are allowed to choose whatever topic that you may find interesting (i.e., what happened to you over the last week, your personal experience visiting China, how to cook your favorite Chinese dish, etc.). There isn't a format for you to follow, so please be as creative as you can! You are expected to present but not *read the content. At the end of your presentation, please come up with at least 1 (open) question that can engage your peers in classroom discussion. Your presentation/speech will be graded on content, grammar, and delivery.

Final Oral Presentation: You will be asked to do a final presentation on any topic of your choice, as long as it is related to Chinese language(s), societies, or culture(s). It should be concise and brief, typically within 5-10 minutes, with 2 minutes reserved for questions. A rough proposal of about 30 Chinese characters will be due on April 1st by the end of the day. Each student will meet with me to get one-on-one feedback on April 21st, and class will not be held on that day. Presentations will be held during our last class on April 28th.

Grading System:

The following grading system will be used

93-100% A	90-92% A -	87-89% B+
83-86% B	80-82% B -	77-79% C+
73-76% C	70-72% C -	67-69% D+
63-66% D	60-62% D -	Below 60% F

Your final course grade will be rounded to the nearest point (0.5 or above, round up).

COURSE COMMUNICATION:

Announcements will be posted in Blackboard on a regular basis. Please make certain to check them regularly, as they will contain any important information about upcoming projects or class concerns. A copy of each announcement will also be sent via email.

Email: In this course we will send email regularly. Make certain to check emails frequently. Turnaround/Feedback: During the week (M-F), if you have a concern and send your instructor a message, you can expect a response within 24 hours. For emails sent during weekends and holidays, you can expect a response on the next available workday. If you have any difficulties or worries concerning your work, however small, please speak to me immediately.

Office Hours are scheduled to be 3:20 – 4:20 pm every Wednesday and can be offered either in person or via Zoom. If you would like to meet with me during the office hours, please remember to sign up using the google form link provided on Blackboard (in the tab "Meet the Instructor"). In order to offer a one-on-one meeting environment, the Zoom meeting listed below has the 'Waiting room' feature activated. You will be first directed to the virtual 'Waiting room'. When I am available, I will let you in.

Meeting ID: 956 2427 4655
Passcode: zhongwen

I will also be available outside my regular office hours by appointment. Please do feel free to email me any time to set up an appointment.

Build Rapport: If you find that you have any trouble keeping up with assignments or other aspects of the course, make sure you let me know as early as possible. As you will find, building rapport and effective relationships are key to becoming an effective professional. Make sure that you are proactive in informing your instructor when difficulties arise during the semester so that we can help you find a solution.

*Culture Note: In Chinese, we never address our professors/teachers by their first names or full names. Addressing your teachers by names is perceived rude in Chinese culture. The proper way to address your teachers is by: "[last name] lǎoshī". So, your Chinese teacher of this semester is Zhāng lǎoshī. When addressing an instructor in an email, you should say: "____ lǎoshī: nín hǎo!"; "nín hǎo" is a polite greeting roughly equivalent to "Hello".

CLASSROOM POLICIES:

Full participation is expected for each student attending this class. Electronic devices are NOT allowed in this class (assistive devices excluded), unless for note-taking purposes. You must talk to me beforehand if you would like to use them to take notes. As this is a language class, we will be practicing pronunciation and reading regularly. Please speak up and follow your instructor to maximize your learning during class time. Food is not allowed in this class, although you can bring some small snacks or drinks if you feel hungry.

Accessibility: The Department of Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics and the Chinese Minor Program value diversity and inclusion. We are committed to a climate of mutual respect and full participation. If you experience any disability and need academic adjustments/accommodation, please contact the Office of Disability Services (ODS) at Syracuse University. Website: http://disabilityservices.syr.edu, Office Location: Room 309, 804 University Avenue, Phone: (315) 443-4498 or TDD: (315) 443-1371. Please note that you will need to talk to me either in person or via email before using any of your accommodations so that I can make arrangements in advance.

Plagiarism is not tolerated in this class in any form. Please do NOT use any translation services such as Google Translate. In some cases, you might need to look up for specific nouns/adjectives to be creative in your writing. I will suggest that you use those online dictionaries posted on Blackboard or simply ask me for how to use them (in the tab Resources). Every time you use expressions outside our class, please mark them overtly and it will not hurt your grade even if you make minor mistakes. I will be able to see it through if you simply copy and paste things from Google Translate. If this happens, you will receive a 0 on that assignment without opportunities to make it up.

Getting everything done on time! It is your responsibility to monitor your progress (and your grade) as we go along. It is extremely important to get things done on time so that deadlines do not pile up until the point where you are no longer able to manage. If you have any questions, no matter how trivial they can be, please ask immediately. I will make sure that you have ways to connect with me, tutors, faculty members in the Chinese Minor Program, and any resources on campus.

EXTRACURRICULAR OPPORTUNITIES

Group Language Tutoring: The Chinese minor program at SU offers free tutoring opportunities for students enrolled in any Chinese classes. For Spring 2023, we have two tutors available for you: Chenglu Jiang (cjiang03@syr.edu) and Julie Dou (xdou01@syr.edu). You can bring any questions related or unrelated to our course to them during the tutoring hours. time. More information regarding tutoring hours and the tutors' profiles can be found under the folder The Learning Community on the Blackboard course website.

Chinese Culture and Conversation Tables are social gatherings open to any students interested in Chinese languages and cultures on the SU campus. These sessions will be held three times during Spring 2023 by Chinese instructors and tutors on Wednesdays from 5:00 – 6:00 pm on the 5th floor of Bird Library. Each session will start with a special topic (i.e., traditional festivals, Chinese food, pop culture, Chinese philosophy etc.) and continue with free discussions and games. Food and beverages will be provided!! You will be able to earn an extra 3 points for Participation per participation, corresponding to 0.9% to the whole course score.

Chinese Lunch will be held every Friday from 12:00 – 1:00 pm in Walnut 210 (International Student Center) by Chinese Minor Program faculty and staff. Please feel free to bring your lunch and eat with us together!! This is a good opportunity for you to learn about the program, ask any questions, and simply chat with Laoshimen in the program.

General University Policies

UNIVERSITY ATTENDANCE POLICY

Attendance in classes is expected in all courses at Syracuse University. Students are expected to arrive on campus in time to attend the first meeting of all classes for which they are registered. Students who do not attend classes starting with the first scheduled meeting may be academically withdrawn as not making progress toward degree by failure to attend. It is a federal requirement that students who do not attend or cease to attend a class to be reported at the time of determination by the faculty. Faculty use "ESPR" and "MSPR" in Orange Success to alert the Office of the Registrar and the Office of Financial Aid. A grade of NA is posted to any student for whom the Never Attended flag is raised in Orange SUccess. More information regarding Orange SUccess can be found at http://orangesuccess.syr.edu/getting-started-2/.

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY POLICIES

Syracuse University has a variety of other policies designed to guarantee that students live and study in a community respectful of their needs and those of fellow students. Some of the most important are these concerns:

Diversity and Disability (ensuring that students are aware of their rights and responsibilities in a diverse, inclusive, accessible, bias-free campus community) can be found at: https://www.syracuse.edu/life/accessibilitydiversity/.

Religious Observances Notification and Policy (steps to follow to request accommodations for the observance of religious holidays) can be found at: http://supolicies.syr.edu/studs/religious_observance.htm.

Orange SUccess (tools to access a variety of SU resources, including ways to communicate with advisors and faculty members) can be found at: http://orangesuccess.syr.edu/getting-started-2/.

Disability-Related Accommodations: Syracuse University values diversity and inclusion; we are committed to a climate of mutual respect and full participation. There may be aspects of the instruction or design of this course that result in barriers to inclusion and full participation in this course. Student are invited to meet with the Office of Disability Services (ODS) to discuss strategies and/or accommodations (academic adjustments) that may be essential to success. Please visit their website at: http://disabilityservices.syr.edu. Call (315) 443-4498 or email disabilityservices@syr.edu for more detailed information. ODS is responsible for coordinating disability-related academic accommodations and will work with the student to develop an access plan. Since academic accommodations may require early planning and generally are not provided retroactively, please contact ODS as soon as possible to begin this process.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The Academic Integrity Policy is designed to achieve four goals – increased effectiveness, increased fairness, increased flexibility, and increased efficiency. Academic integrity is a core value of the University and one for which we all share responsibility. Please remember your role in fostering the highest ideals of academic honesty and integrity. The Center for Learning and Student Success (CLASS) collaborates with schools and colleges to implement our policy for academic integrity developed in consultation with the University Senate.

Syracuse University's Academic Integrity Policy reflects the high value that we, as a university community, place on honesty in academic work. The policy defines our expectations for academic honesty and holds students accountable for the integrity of all work they submit. Students should understand that it is their responsibility to learn about course-specific expectations, as well as about university-wide academic integrity expectations. The policy governs appropriate citation and use of sources, the integrity of work submitted in exams and assignments, and the veracity of signatures on attendance sheets and other verification of participation in class activities. The policy also prohibits students from submitting the same work in more than one class without receiving written authorization in advance from both instructors. Under the policy, students found in violation are subject to grade sanctions determined by the course instructor and non-grade sanctions determined by the School or College where the course is offered as described in the Violation and Sanction Classification Rubric. Syracuse University students are required to read an online summary of the University's academic integrity expectations and provide an electronic signature agreeing to abide by them twice a year during pre-term check- in on MySlice.

The Violation and Sanction Classification Rubric establishes recommended guidelines for the determination of grade penalties by faculty and instructors, while also giving them discretion to select the grade penalty they believe most suitable, including course failure, regardless of violation level. Any established violation in this course may result in course failure regardless of violation level.

Academic Integrity Online
"All academic integrity expectations that apply to in-person quizzes and exams also apply to online quizzes and exams. In this course, all work submitted for quizzes and exams must be yours alone. Discussing quiz or exam questions with anyone during the quiz or exam period violates academic integrity expectations for this course."

"Using websites that charge fees or require uploading of course material (e.g. Chegg, Course Hero) to obtain exam solutions or assignments completed by others and present the work as your own violates academic integrity expectations in this course."

BLACKBOARD LEARNING MANAGE SYSTEM

The Blackboard Learning Management System is a key instructional technology tool that enables Syracuse University instructors to engage in transformative teaching and learning, both for face-to-face and online courses. All faculty, staff and students at Syracuse University can access Blackboard using their University NetID. Course access is granted through an integrated data feed with the MySlice student information system. This integration automatically generates course sites and enrollments for all officially recognized courses each semester. Student access to Blackboard class page is activated when the instructor makes the course "available".

Information Technology Services ensures the optimal performance of the Blackboard system by overseeing system access, account creations, system operations, user training and technical support. Additional information about Blackboard is available on Answers Blackboard; alternatively, you can contact Information Technology Services by sending email to help@syr.edu or by calling 315.443.2677.

Accessible Blackboard Content
Syracuse University is using Blackboard Ally, a tool to help enhance the usability and accessibility of course documents in the Blackboard learning management system. Ally provides students with multiple accessible formats of the original document so they can select the best one that fits their unique needs. Currently, Ally offers accessible versions of Portable Document Format (PDF) files, Microsoft Office files (Word and PowerPoint), images and uploaded HTML files. Students will see a dropdown menu to the right of each document. From this dropdown menu, they can select one or more Accessible versions to download and use.

Additional information on the Blackboard Ally tool is available on Answers Blackboard Ally; alternatively, you can contact Information Technology Services by sending email to help@syr.edu or calling 315.443.2677.

Captioning Online Synchronous and Asynchronous Content
Syracuse University offers both Blackboard Collaborate Ultra and Zoom for online synchronous course meetings, whether from a University facility or off-campus location. Both web-conferencing services enable students to log in from their Blackboard course and also offer the option to have live-captioning functionality as required by the Center for Disability Resources.

DISABILITY SYLLABUS STATEMENT

Syracuse University values diversity and inclusion; we are committed to a climate of mutual respect and full participation. There may be aspects of the instruction or design of this course that result in barriers to your inclusion and full participation in this course. I invite any student to contact me to discuss strategies and/or accommodations (academic adjustments) that may be essential to your success and to collaborate with the Center for Disability Resources (CDR) in this process.
If you would like to discuss disability-accommodations or register with CDR, please visit Center for Disability Resources. Please call (315) 443-4498 or email disabilityresources@syr.edu for more detailed information.

The CDR is responsible for coordinating disability-related academic accommodations and will work with the student to develop an access plan. Since academic accommodations may require early planning and generally are not provided retroactively, please contact CDR as soon as possible to begin this process.

Furniture may be placed in classrooms for specific use by students with disabilities. This furniture is generally labelled with signs that request that it is not to be moved per the Center for Disability Resources. Students with disabilities rely on this furniture to remain where it is placed within the classrooms. There may be additional considerations for furniture placement based on social distancing guidelines. This will ensure that students who need the furniture will have the access that they require and that they can abide by the Stay Safe Pledge.

Some students may be accompanied to classes by a service animal. Students are not required to provide prior notice of this to the University. If it is not readily apparent that the student is disabled, students can be asked two questions, do you have this animal due to a disability and what tasks does it perform for you? Emotional Support Animals are different than services animals and are typically only approved to reside in a student's housing location/room.

DISCRIMINATION OR HARASSMENT

The University does not discriminate and prohibits harassment or discrimination related to any protected category including creed, ethnicity, citizenship, sexual orientation, national origin, sex, gender, pregnancy, disability, marital status, age, race, color, veteran status, military status, religion, sexual orientation, domestic violence status, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression or perceived gender.

Any complaint of discrimination or harassment related to any of these protected bases should be reported to Sheila Johnson-Willis, the University's Chief Equal Opportunity & Title IX Officer. She is responsible for coordinating compliance efforts under various laws including Titles VI, VII, IX and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act. She can be contacted at Equal Opportunity, Inclusion, and Resolution Services, 005

Incidents of sexual violence or harassment can be reported non-confidentially to the University's Title IX Officer (Sheila Johnson Willis, 315-443-0211, titleix@syr.edu, 005 Steele Hall). Reports to law enforcement can be made to the University's Department of Public Safety (315-443-2224, 005 Sims Hall), the Syracuse Police Department (511 South State Street, Syracuse, New York, 911 in case of emergency or 315-435-3016 to speak with the Abused Persons Unit), or the State Police (844-845-7269). I will seek to keep information you share with me private to the greatest extent possible, but as a professor I have mandatory reporting responsibilities to share information regarding sexual misconduct, harassment, and crimes I learn about with the University's Title IX Officer to help make our campus a safer place for all.

FAITH TRADITION OBSERVATIONS

Syracuse University does not set aside days for any religious holiday. Students must notify instructors by the end of the second week of classes for regular session classes and by the submission deadline for flexibly formatted classes when they will be observing their religious holiday(s). Students will have access to an online notification form through MySlice for two weeks beginning on the first day of class.

Syracuse University's Religious Observances Policy recognizes the diversity of faiths represented in the campus community and protects the rights of students, faculty, and staff to observe religious holy days according to their traditions. Under the policy, students should have an opportunity to make up any examination, study, or work requirements that may be missed due to a religious observance provided they notify their instructors no later than the end of the second week of classes for regular session classes and by the submission deadline for flexibility formatted classes. Student deadlines are posted in MySlice under Student Services/Enrollment/My Religious Observances/Add a Notification.

ORANGE ALERT, Syracuse University's crisis notification system, uses text messages, phone, and email alerts to provide rapid notification and instructions to members of the University community in the event of a crisis in progress. Crises could include an individual who is considered armed and dangerous, a hazardous materials incident, an explosion, or any other event in which there is an immediate threat of physical harm or death to campus community members. ORANGE ALERT contact information for students, faculty, and staff is drawn from the MySlice online information system; please keep your contact information current.
