Course Description and Learning Outcomes

There is an old joke about Carnegie Hall, the famous New York concert hall:
A visitor stops a New Yorker on the street and asks, "How do I get to Carnegie Hall?" to which the New Yorker replies: "Practice, practice, and practice!"

Well, if you want to learn Chinese, then you will also need to "practice, practice, and practice". To help you do this, you will have some form of quiz at least once a week, as well as homework assignments each day and for the weekend. Thus, apart from the four classes each week, this course requires significant out-of-class time to be spent on preparation, assignments and reviewing. Please be aware of this time obligation and only take the course if you are willing and able to fully commit yourself to this schedule.

This course is an introduction to basic grammar, vocabulary, usage, and the writing system of the Chinese language for students with little or no background in the language. It aims at developing overall competence in listening, speaking, reading, and writing in Chinese.

Prerequisite Information: This course has no prerequisites and is specifically designed for students with no prior background in Chinese. If you have previously studied Chinese but have not yet discussed your enrollment in this course with Dr. Tsen (the Chinese program coordinator), please send him an email (dhtsen@syr.edu) as soon as possible to schedule a placement exam.

Required Materials (available at SU Bookstore in Schine Student Center. TEL: 315-443-9900)

Liu, Xun, New Practical Chinese Reader Book Vol. 1 (2nd ed.), Beijing Language and Culture University Press. Note that you will need to purchase both the following. This is the same textbook that we have used for CHI 101.

1) Textbook-1 (including audio CD)
2) Workbook-1

Required Technology

- Computer with internet access and the ability to read Word, PowerPoint, and PDF documents.
- Headphones or earbuds with microphone.
- Access to a printer and a scanner (scanning could be done either on your phone or at Bird Library)

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES & EVALUATION

Course Requirements:

Attendance and Participation	15%
Homework Assignments	20%
Post-Unit Exams	20%
Vocabulary Quizzes	10%
Mid-Term Exam (oral & written)	15%
Final Exam (oral & written)	20%
Extra Credit Opportunity	at most 3%[1]

Attendance: Attendance is essential for a language course. Except for excused absence with legitimate documents presented beforehand, you are expected to attend all the classes. Leaving 10 minutes early or arriving 10 minutes late will be considered as an absence. However, due to the volatile nature of the pandemic, you are allowed up to 3 absences without excuses, please save them for emergencies, religious holidays, family events, job interviews etc. Any unexcused absence will result in a -1 point penalty deducted from your participation grade (which corresponds to -0.3 in total course grade). Being absent for more than 8 classes (including the 3 mentioned above) will result in an F in your final grade.

Homework Assignments: Homework assignments need to be submitted on time via Blackboard inside each week's module. Assignments from the workbook need to be completed by hand, scanned, and then submitted on Blackboard. Please make the file in word or pdf format (please see the resources section on Blackboard for instructions). Late submission will be accepted within seven days of the due date but could only get up to 8/10 points. Please make sure to read my comments every time you get my feedback so that you can grow from your mistakes.

Vocabulary Quizzes: For each module of study, you will have a list of essential vocabulary (15–20 words) to master. You are expected to know their pinyin, meaning, and writing in Chinese characters. Each vocabulary quiz should be completed within 12 minutes at the start of class.

Post-Unit Exams: There will be an exam scheduled at the end of each module, which consists of a written component and an oral component. The written exam will be administered during class time, and the oral exam will be completed on Blackboard via the PlayPosit platform, for which you will need to record yourself using your computer. Answer key for the exams will not be released on Blackboard. Please come to my office hours or group tutoring if you would like to check your answers.

Mid-Term and Final Exams: There will be an oral component and a written component for both the mid-term and final exams. The oral exams will be conducted during regular class time. For the mid-term, students will pair up with each other, answer a few questions, and have a conversation. For the final exam, students will need to do a presentation in Chinese. The mid-term written exam will be administered during regular class time, and the final exam will be held during the final's week (see the last section Important Dates below).

Make-Up Policies: Homework assignments could be made up within 7 days of the due date, while you will only be able to get at most 8/10 based on the quality of your work. NO makeup exams (including Post-Unit Exams, Mid-Term, and Final) are allowed unless they are for documented medical or personal leave, including university-sponsored activities (e.g., graduate student internship, sporting events) jury duty, and job interview. Please let me know in advance of any absences. In sum, I only offer make-up opportunities if the reasons you provide are out of your own

[1] Your participation in the Chinese Culture and Conversation Tables (see page 4) will earn 2 extra points per time added to your participation grade (which corresponds to 0.6 in final grade). However, your total course grade will not exceed 100%. During the semester, other extra credit opportunities may occur in class without prior notice.

control. This does not include leaving early for a break or arriving late from a break.

Grading System:

The following grading system will be used

93-100% A	90-92% A -	87-89% B+
83-86% B	80-82% B -	77-79% C+
73-76% C	70-72% C -	67-69% D+
63-66% D	60-62% D -	Below 60% F

Your final course grade will be rounded to the nearest point (0.5 or above, round up).

COURSE COMMUNICATION:

Announcements will be posted on Blackboard on a regular basis. Please make certain to check them regularly, as they will contain any important information about upcoming projects or class concerns. A copy of each announcement will also be sent via email.

Email: In this course we will send email regularly. Make certain to check emails frequently. Turnaround/Feedback: During the week (M-F), if you have a concern and send your instructor a message, you can expect a response within 24 hours. For emails sent during weekends and holidays, you can expect a response on the next available workday. If you have any difficulties or worries concerning your work, however small, please speak to me immediately.

Office Hours are scheduled to be 3:20 – 4:20 pm every Wednesday and can be offered either in person or via Zoom. If you would like to meet with me during the office hours, please remember to sign up using the google form link provided on Blackboard (in the tab "Meet the Instructor"). In order to offer a one-on-one meeting environment, the Zoom meeting listed below has the 'Waiting room' feature activated. You will be first directed to the virtual 'Waiting room'. When I am available, I will let you in.

Zoom Meeting:
https://tinyurl.com/kyzhang
Meeting ID: 940 6811 9720
Passcode: zhongwen

I will also be available for meetings by appointment. Please do feel free to email me any time to set up an appointment.

Build Rapport: If you find that you have any trouble keeping up with assignments or other aspects of the course, make sure you let me know as early as possible. As you will find, building rapport and effective relationships are key to becoming an effective professional. Make sure that you are proactive in informing your instructor when difficulties arise during the semester so that we can help you find a solution.

*Culture Note: In Chinese, we never address our professors/teachers by their first names or full names. Addressing your teachers by names is perceived rude in Chinese culture. The proper way to address your teachers is by: "[last name] lǎoshī". So, your Chinese teacher of this semester is Zhāng lǎoshī. When addressing an instructor in an email, you should say: "____ lǎoshī: nín hǎo!"; "nín hǎo" is a polite greeting roughly equivalent to "Hello".

CLASSROOM POLICIES:

Full participation is expected for each student attending this class. Electronic devices are NOT allowed in this class, including for note-taking purposes. Assistive devices are allowed, as long as they are approved by the Center for Disability Resources (CDR). I will send you email alerts if I find you obsessed with your cellphone during class. As this is a language class, we will be practicing pronunciation and reading regularly. Please speak up and follow your instructor to maximize your learning during class time. You will get an F if you receive my alert three times. Food is not allowed in this class, although you can bring some small snacks or drinks if you feel hungry in the afternoon.

Accessibility: The Department of Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics and the Chinese Minor Program value diversity and inclusion. We are committed to a climate of mutual respect and full participation. If you experience any disability and need academic adjustments/accommodation, please contact the Office of Disability Services (ODS) at Syracuse University. Website: http://disabilityservices.syr.edu, Office Location: Room 309, 804 University Avenue, Phone: (315) 443-4498 or TDD: (315) 443-1371. Please note that you will need to talk to me either in person or via email before using any of your accommodations so that I can make arrangements in advance.

Plagiarism is not tolerated in this class in any form. Please do NOT use any translation services such as Google Translate and DeepL. In some cases, you might need to look up specific nouns/adjectives to be creative in your writing. I will suggest that you use those online dictionaries posted on Blackboard or simply ask me for how to use them (in the tab Resources). Every time you use expressions outside our class, please mark them overtly and it will not hurt your grade even if you make minor mistakes. I will be able to see it through if you simply copy and paste things from Google Translate. If this happens, you will receive a 0 on that assignment without opportunities to make it up.

Getting everything done on time! It is your responsibility to monitor your progress (and your grade) as we go along. It is extremely important to complete tasks promptly to avoid accumulating deadlines to a point where they become unmanageable. If you have any questions, no matter how trivial they can be, please ask immediately. I will make sure that you have ways to connect with me, tutors, and other faculty members in the Chinese Minor Program.

RECOMMENDATION LETTERS:

I am happy to write recommendation letters for students who are applying for language-related scholarships/fellowships (e.g., Critical Language Scholarship) and graduate/exchange programs. However, please be aware that it is your responsibility to provide me with any relevant information (e.g., statement of purpose, CV, among others) so that I can tailor my letter to better align with your goals. A well-crafted recommendation letter typically takes me at least 7 days to complete, so please make sure to contact me well in advance. Please note that I am unable to provide letters for students who have not completed any of my courses or have scored below a B-.

EXTRACURRICULAR OPPORTUNITIES

Group Language Tutoring: The Chinese minor program offers free tutoring opportunities for students enrolled in any Chinese classes on campus. For Fall 2023, we have two tutors available for you: Raine Xiaoyu Wu (xwu103@syr.edu) and Michelle Yamin Liang (yliang12@syr.edu). You can bring any questions related or unrelated to our course to them during the tutoring hours (9:30 – 11:30 am, every Friday @ HBC 009). You will be able to earn 2 extra points added to your vocabular quiz scores per participation. Please remember to sign up for a spot using the google form provided on Blackboard so that we can assign you a tutor at your selected time. More information regarding tutoring hours and the tutors' profiles can be found under the folder The Learning Community on the Blackboard course website.

Individual Language Tutoring: If you have questions but cannot attend Group Language Tutoring, please feel free to contact tutors to set up an appointment. They will be very happy to help you outside regular tutoring hours, either in person or online.

Chinese Culture and Conversation Tables are social gatherings open to any students interested in Chinese languages and cultures on the SU campus. These sessions will be held twice a month during Fall 2023 by Chinese instructors and tutors on Thursdays from 5:00 to 6:00 pm in Heroy Geology Building 114. Each session will start with a special topic (i.e., traditional festivals, Chinese food, pop culture, Chinese philosophy etc.) and continue with games and/or free discussions. Food and beverages will be provided!! Note that you will also be able to earn some extra credits if you attend these events (see footnote on page 2).

MASK, HYGIENE, COVID-19 POLICY

If you test positive for COVID or need to be in isolation following a positive test, please do not come to class. Please call the Barnes Center at 315.443.8000 and follow their instructions. Since there may be a delay in the notification of excused absence on Orange Success, please send me an email directly if you need to miss class due to these reasons so that I can record the lectures for you. In such cases, you will still be eligible to earn credits for attendance and participation by watching the recordings and answering any embedded questions on Blackboard.

General University Policies

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY AND ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Syracuse University's Academic Integrity Policy reflects the high value that we, as a university community, place on honesty in academic work. The policy holds students accountable for the integrity of all work they submit and for upholding course-specific, as well as university-wide, academic integrity expectations. The policy governs citation and use of sources, the integrity of work submitted in exams and assignments, and truthfulness in all academic matters, including course attendance and participation. The policy states that any work a student submits for a course must be solely their own unless the instructor explicitly allows collaboration or editing. The policy also requires students to acknowledge their use of other peoples' language, images or other original creative or scholarly work through appropriate citation. These expectations extend to the new, fast-growing realm of artificial intelligence (AI) as well as to the use of websites that charge fees or require uploading of course materials to obtain exam solutions or assignments. Students are required to ask their instructor whether use of these tools is permitted – and if so, to what extent – before using them to complete any assignment or exam. Students are also required to seek advance permission from instructors if they wish to submit the same work in more than one course. Failure to receive this permission in advance may violate the Academic Integrity Policy. Under the policy, instructors who seek to penalize a student for a suspected violation must first report the violation to the Center for Learning and Student Success (CLASS). Students may not drop or withdraw from courses in which they face a suspected violation. Instructors must wait to assign a final course grade until a suspected violation is reviewed and upheld or overturned. Upholding Academic Integrity includes abiding by instructors' individual course expectations, which may include the protection of their intellectual property. Students should not upload, distribute, or otherwise share instructors' course materials without permission. Students found in violation of the policy are subject to grade sanctions determined by the course instructor and non-grade sanctions determined by the School or College where the course is offered, as outlined in the Violation and Sanction Classification Rubric. Students are required to read an online summary of the University's academic integrity expectations and provide an electronic signature agreeing to abide by them twice a year during pre-term check-in on MySlice.

Using artificial intelligence to complete any assignments or exams is prohibited because developing your own language skills is a key goal of this course. AI detection tools may be used as one factor in evaluating potential inappropriate use of AI in this course.

Academic Integrity Online
All academic integrity expectations that apply to in-person quizzes and exams also apply to online quizzes and exams. In this course, all work submitted for quizzes and exams must be yours alone. Discussing quiz or exam questions with anyone during the quiz or exam period violates academic integrity expectations for this course.

Using websites that charge fees or require uploading of course material (e.g., Chegg, Course Hero) to obtain exam solutions or assignments completed by others and present the work as your own violates academic integrity expectations in this course and may be classified as a Level 3 violation, resulting in suspension or expulsion from Syracuse University.

UNIVERSITY ATTENDANCE POLICY

Attendance in classes is expected in all courses at Syracuse University. It is a federal requirement that faculty promptly notify the university of students who do not attend or cease to attend any class. Faculty will use Early-Semester Progress Reports and Mid-Semester Progress Reports in Orange SUccess to alert the Registrar and Financial Aid Office on non-attendance. For more information visit: Information for Students: Non-Attendance or Stopped Attending.

If a student is unable to participate in-person or virtually for an extended period of time (48 hours or more), the student may request an absence notification from their home school/college Dean's Office or through Student Outreach and Retention (SOaR) office. Instructors will be notified via the "Absence Notification" flag in Orange SUccess.

Barnes Center at the Arch (Health, Counseling, etc.) staff will not provide medical excuse notes for students. When Barnes Center staff determine it is medically necessary to remove a student from classes, they will coordinate with SOaR case management staff to provide appropriate notification to faculty through Orange Success. For absences lasting less than 48 hours, students are encouraged to discuss academic arrangements directly with their faculty.

Additional information may be found at Student Outreach and Retention: Absence Notifications.

BLACKBOARD LEARNING MANAGE SYSTEM

Syracuse University recognizes the importance of teaching and the use of appropriate teaching materials to successful student learning. The Blackboard Learning Management System is a key instructional technology tool that enables Syracuse University instructors to engage in transformative teaching and learning, both for face-to-face and online courses. All students, faculty, and staff at Syracuse University can access Blackboard using their University NetID. Course access is granted through an integrated data feed with the MySlice student information system. This integration automatically generates course sites and enrollments for all officially recognized courses each semester. Student access to Blackboard class page is activated when the instructor makes the course "available."

Information Technology Services ensures the optimal performance of the Blackboard system by overseeing system access, account creations, system operations, user training and technical support.

For fall 2023, the Blackboard Learning Management System will deliver the existing Blackboard Learn course interface and a new optional Ultra Experience course interface. Students will likely have most courses in the Learn format and may have a few in the Ultra Experience format. Beginning in Fall 2024, all course sites in Blackboard will be in the Ultra Course View.

Information about Blackboard is available on Answers Blackboard; alternatively, you can contact Information Technology Services by sending an email to help@syr.edu, calling 315.443.2677, or in-person at the ITS Service Center, located at 1-227 CST in the Life Sciences Complex. Business hours for the Service Center can be found on the ITS Website at http://its.syr.edu/its_service_center/

Accessible Blackboard Content
Syracuse University is using Blackboard Ally, a tool to help enhance the usability and accessibility of course documents in the Blackboard learning management system. Ally provides students with multiple accessible formats of the original document to select those that fit their unique needs. Currently, Ally offers accessible versions of Portable Document Format (PDF) files, Microsoft Office files (Word and PowerPoint), images and uploaded HTML files. Students will see a clickable "A," which pops up in a window, and they can select one or more accessible alternative documents to download and use.

Additional information on the Blackboard Ally tool is available on Answers Blackboard Ally; alternatively, you can contact Information Technology Services by sending email to help@syr.edu or calling 315.443.2677.

DISABILITY SYLLABUS STATEMENT

Syracuse University values diversity and inclusion; we are committed to a climate of mutual respect and full participation. There may be aspects of the instruction or design of this course that result in barriers to your inclusion and full participation in this course. I invite any student to contact me to discuss strategies and/or accommodations (academic adjustments) that may be essential to your success and to collaborate with the Center for Disability Resources (CDR) in this process.

If you would like to discuss disability-accommodations or register with CDR, please visit Center for Disability Resources. Please call (315) 443-4498 or email disabilityresources@syr.edu for more detailed information.

The CDR is responsible for coordinating disability-related academic accommodations and will work with the student to develop an access plan. Since academic accommodations may require early planning and generally are not provided retroactively, please contact CDR as soon as possible to begin this process. Furniture may be placed in your classrooms for specific use by students with disabilities. This furniture is generally labelled with signs that request that it is not to be moved per the Center for Disability Resources. Students with disabilities rely on this furniture to remain where it is placed within the classrooms.

Note that some students may be accompanied to classes by a service animal. Students are not required to provide prior notice of this to the University. If it is not readily apparent that the student is disabled, students can be asked two questions, do you have this animal due to a disability and what tasks does it perform for you? Emotional Support Animals are different than services animals and are typically only approved to reside in a student's housing location/room.

Discrimination or Harassment

The University does not discriminate and prohibits harassment or discrimination related to any protected category including creed, ethnicity, citizenship, sexual orientation, national origin, sex, gender, pregnancy, disability, marital status, age, race, color, veteran status, military status, religion, sexual orientation, domestic violence status, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression or perceived gender.

Any complaint of discrimination or harassment related to any of these protected bases should be reported to Sheila Johnson-Willis, the University's Chief Equal Opportunity & Title IX Officer. She is responsible for coordinating compliance efforts under various laws including Titles VI, VII, IX and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act. She can be contacted at Equal Opportunity, Inclusion, and Resolution Services, 005 Steele Hall, Syracuse University, Syracuse, NY 13244-1120; by email: titleix@syr.edu; or by telephone: 315-443-0211.

Federal and state law, and University policy prohibit discrimination and harassment based on sex or gender (including sexual harassment, sexual assault, domestic/dating violence, stalking, sexual exploitation, and retaliation). If a student has been harassed or assaulted, they can obtain confidential counseling support, 24-hours a day, 7 days a week, from the Sexual and Relationship Violence Response Team at the Counseling Center (315-443-8000, Barnes Center at The Arch, 150 Sims Drive, Syracuse, New York 13244). Incidents of sexual violence or harassment can be reported non-confidentially to the University's Title IX Officer (Sheila Johnson Willis, 315-443-0211, titleix@syr.edu, 005 Steele Hall). Reports to law enforcement can be made to the University's Department of Public Safety (315-443-2224, 005 Sims Hall), the Syracuse Police Department (511 South State Street, Syracuse, New York, 911 in case of emergency or 315-435-3016 to speak with the Abused Persons Unit), or the State Police (844-845-7269). I will seek to keep information you share with me private to the greatest extent possible, but as a professor I have mandatory reporting responsibilities to share information regarding sexual misconduct, harassment, and crimes I learn about with the University's Title IX Officer to help make our campus a safer place for all.

Faith Tradition Observations

Syracuse University does not set aside days for any religious holiday. Students must notify instructors of any religious observances by the academic drop deadline. For any observances occurring before the academic drop deadline, students must notify faculty at least two academic days in advance. Please remind students in class of their obligations to do so. Students register their observances using MySlice.

Syracuse University's Religious Observances Policy recognizes the diversity of faiths represented in the campus community and protects the rights of students, faculty, and staff to observe religious holy days according to their traditions. Under the policy, students are given an opportunity to make up any examination, study, or work requirements that may be missed due to a religious observance, provided they notify their instructors no later than the academic drop deadline. For observances occurring before the drop deadline, notification is required at least two academic days in advance. Students may enter their observances in MySlice under Student Services/Enrollment/My Religious Observances/Add a Notification.

HEALTH & WELLNESS CONSIDERATIONS

Mental health and overall well-being are significant predictors of academic success. As such it is essential that during your college experience you develop the skills and resources effectively to navigate stress, anxiety, depression, and other mental health concerns. Please familiarize yourself with the range of resources the Barnes Center provides (https://ese.syr.edu/bewell/) and seek out support for mental health concerns as needed. Counseling services are available 24/7, 365 days, at 315-443-8000, and I encourage you to explore the resources available through the Wellness Leadership Institute, https://ese.syr.edu/bewell/wellness-leadership-institute/

ORANGE ALERT

ORANGE ALERT, Syracuse University's crisis notification system, uses text messages, phone, and email alerts to provide rapid notification and instructions to members of the University community in the event of a crisis in progress. Crises could include an individual who is considered armed and dangerous, a hazardous materials incident, an explosion, or any other event in which there is an immediate threat of physical harm or death to campus community members. We recognize that faculty may consider activated cell phones as an interruption to their class. However, the Department of Public Safety recommends that faculty members leave their own cell phones on vibrate in order to receive text messages about a potential emergency situation. It is also recommended that faculty designate several class members to leave their cell phones on vibrate in order to receive notifications in the event of a critical incident. ORANGE ALERT contact information for students, faculty, and staff is drawn from the MySlice online information system; please keep your contact information current.

In the event of an emergency, please use one of the following numbers to reach us:

From any phone: 315.443.2222
From your cell phone: #78 (#SU)
Campus landline: 711

For more information on ORANGE ALERT, including how to update your contact information, visit the DPS website
